

AMERICA'S ESSENTIAL HOSPITALS

Steven Roth, JD, MPH

Executive Vice President and General Counsel
Parkland Health & Hospital System

Roth serves as executive vice president and general counsel at Parkland Health & Hospital System, in Dallas, one of the nation's largest public hospitals. He also serves as chief counsel for the Parkland Community Health Plan Inc., a health maintenance organization (HMO) with approximately 200,000 members, and the Parkland Center for Clinical Innovation, a nonprofit technology and analytics company that develops complex, real-time predictive analytics solutions for safe, effective, and timely care delivery.

Roth has more than 20 years of experience in health law. Prior to working at Parkland, he worked in the health care and corporate transaction sections of a large Texas-based law firm, as well as for a New York-based HMO. He has expertise in advising hospitals, health systems, academic medical centers, technology companies, managed care entities, and other health care providers on business and technology transactions, government reimbursement, the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, electronic medical records, managed care, day-to-day operations, and regulatory and compliance matters.

Roth was named the 2015 Outstanding In-House Counsel in North Texas by D CEO magazine and the Association of Corporate Counsel. He holds a bachelor's degree in economics from The Pennsylvania State University, a juris doctorate from the University of Pittsburgh School of Law, and a master's degree in public health from the Harvard University School of Public Health.
